Healthy Relationships A Leader's Approach to Cyberbullying and Cyberviolence

Session 1
Tuesday, December 3, 2024
10:00 - 11:00 a.m. EDT

Land Acknowledgement

We acknowledge this land on which our work and the work of our partners takes place. It is the traditional land of many nations, including the Mississaugas of the Credit, the Haudenosaunee, and the Anishinaabe. We are thankful to live and work here and share in a spirit of peace, friendship and respect.

Housekeeping Items

- Recording: Today's session will be recorded. Images may be posted on social media, and the recording may be made available for viewing later
- Interactions: Please mute your microphones. Raise your hand when you wish to ask a question. Participants will be invited to unmute and speak. We encourage you to turn on your camera when speaking, but this is not necessary.

- Social Media: Please share your ideas and key takeaways from today using your social media feeds and invite colleagues to join us in future meetings.

Goals of the Cyberviolence & Cyberbullying Series

A Leaders Approach to Cyberbullying and Cyberviolence

- ❖ Share existing resources and partnerships
- ❖ Increase awareness of cyberviolence and cyberbullying supports and responses
- ❖ Gather feedback from Principals and Vice-Principals about your thoughts and needs with respect to planning for or responding to incidents of cyberviolence and cyberbullying in your schools

Session 1 -- December 3	What's happening now? What's available for leaders?
Session 2 -- January 23	Who do leaders talk to? What can leaders do?
Session 3 -- March 18	What's new for leaders in the evolving digital landscape?
Session 4 -- May 1	How do leaders plan?

Parent* and School Engagement

“... for parent engagement to be most impactful, school learning must go into the home and home learning must be brought into the school ... Parent engagement happening both on and off of the school landscape.”
Pushor, 2019

There is a difference between cyberviolence and cyberbullying

- Cyberviolence: Umbrella term used to describe a wide range of online behaviours that are intentionally done to hurt others.
- Cyberbullying: Behaviour directed towards another individual or group with the intent to cause emotional harm through the use of technology such as the internet and electronic devices.

Cyberbullying occurs when there is an unequal balance of social, emotional or physical power. This power can be real or perceived and there is repetitive behaviour of hurtful actions.

Did you know?

- 1 in 5 Canadian teens have witnessed online bullying
- 25% of kids between 12-15 have witnessed cyberbullying
- 51% of all teens have had a negative experience with social networking
- Most apps, if not all, have a 'User Guide' to help us learn

You know your child.

Have you noticed they are

- having trouble sleeping
- less interested in school, hobbies, activities
- showing changes in personality
- avoiding devices
- interacting less with family and friends or prefer being alone and/or
- overreacting.

These are signs that something may be going on, so you may want to have a chat, follow-up, monitor and ask for help.

*Refers to any parent, guardian or care-giver in the role.

When navigating cyberviolence and cyberbullying, you are not alone! Parents and school leaders must proceed in knowledge and not in fear when working together to keep children safe.

Healthy Relationships: Navigating cyberbullying and cyberviolence

Restorative Practice

“Healthy relationships are based on respect, caring, empathy, trust, and dignity, and thrive in an environment in which diversity is honoured and accepted.”
Ontario Health and Physical Education Curriculum (2015)

Restorative practice is a strategy that can be used in response to cyberbullying and cyberviolence in schools and on social media. Restorative practices complement the Healthy Relationships: Navigating Cyberbullying and Cyberviolence Placemat (Proactive and Reactive).

Restorative practice is proactive in that it supports well-being by building and strengthening a safe and caring school culture. It is effective when responding to an incident by seeking to repair and restore relationships. This approach allows administrators to consider a different way of thinking about harm, the people involved and the responses to the harm.

When leading or facilitating a restorative practice approach, principals and vice-principals know that restorative practice

- helps the individuals involved to own and reflect on their actions
- seeks to make it as right as possible for those harmed
- involves the school community in helping both the person(s) who harmed and those who have been harmed and
- acknowledges that those who harmed need healing as well.

“Restorative practices also include preventive measures designed to build skills and capacity in students as well as adults.”

Smith D., et al. (2015) Better Than Carrots or Sticks: Restorative Practices for Positive Classroom.

Restorative practice offers benefits to the

- school community (reduced repeat occurrences, increased safety, stronger community)
- student/community member who was harmed (empowerment, recovery and satisfaction) and
- student/community member who caused the harm (opportunity to make things right, put the incident behind them in a timely manner).

Public Safety Canada offers more information on restorative practice's impact on participant health. LEARN MORE

"This is my commandment, that you love one another as I have loved you." John 15:12

Helping Students Help Students

Principals and vice-principals want to assist you because you are a friend, ally, parent/guardian or witness to a student who has been hurt.

Do you know that principals/vice-principals know that...

- students who have been bullied tend to reach out to their friends first?
- your relationship to someone who has been hurt is important in their healing process?
- you may be the difference for someone who was hurt?
- all incidents of cyberbullying must be taken seriously?
- students may be hesitant to speak up for fear of repercussions, being judged, not being believed, losing their device, being disciplined or even being outed?

Principals and vice-principals are here to help YOU...too!

Did you know...

- most cyberbullies and victims know each other?
- 50% of youth and 30% of parents/guardians say they have witnessed cyberbullying?
- 65% of youth say that they would tell a friend over a parent/guardian or trusted adult?

So what can you do to help?

- Trust your principal or vice-principal to help you!
- Do not respond to the texts or messages
- Block the user
- Adjust your privacy settings
- Report the behaviour through the social media site, to your teachers, your parent/guardian or another trusted adult
- Talk to someone you trust

"I give you a new commandment, that you love one another. Just as I have loved you, you also should love one another." John 13:34

Healthy Relationships: Navigating Cyberbullying and Cyberviolence Listening to What Students Have to Say!

Q&A

What did we learn from students? (Student Survey 2023)

- "Sometimes it's the comments on posts that affect the targeted student more than the post itself"
- Majority of students expressed serious concerns in the cyber world about harassment, bullying and violence
- The most vulnerable student groups identify as female, racialized youth and 2SLGBTQIA+
- These learnings are prevalent in both elementary and secondary schools

Top reasons students do not report cyberviolence

Students also said...

- "Not all cyberbullying is one sided and some students can lash out in response" (retaliation gets the penalty)
- "People often feel ashamed to say anything so discussing it openly and how you can stop it or having anonymous submissions would feel less stressful to young people"
- "The victims may not be the people who you expect"
- Building a relationship before an incident occurs is critical
- All reports are important
- Use discretion with all reports
- Take extra precaution to create safe environments (i.e., no cell phones in change rooms)
- Follow up with all reports
- Consider anonymous options for reporting for fearful victims
- Learn the slang or culture of students
- Never discount an incident and wait for something else to happen
